OBJECTIVES

As a result of this activity, the participant will be able to:

- Rank priorities for treatment goals based on a simple treatment hierarchy for treating toddlers with social communication delays and disorders
- List key social skills to serve as the foundation for progress in early language development
- Explain to parents the reasons we target other goals beyond "talking"
- Formulate and plan appropriate activities and materials for treatment sessions with your youngest clients who are functioning developmentally in the birth to three range
- Tell parents how to target receptive language with an easy-to-remember tag line
- Describe strategies for using pictures, PECS, and other early AAC
- Summarize common expressive language strategies
- Determine appropriate speech intelligibility treatment targets and techniques for toddlers
- Show parents how to carry-over activities into daily routines at home

FEEDBACK FROM PREVIOUS CONFERENCES:

"Excellent job! This is the kind of conference I've been waiting for – for 15 years! It should be a requirement for all early intervention therapists." Dawn, SLP, Columbus, OH

"This course was awesome and very interesting. It's probably the first class I've ever taken to talk about the things we really do in therapy." Julie, SLP, New Orleans, LA

"As an OT I work on everything with children, but this course has helped me pull together all the bits and pieces I've been using. Now I can be more effective." Kris, OT, Atlanta, GA

"Laura, please have more trainings! I have spent years wasting time and money going to trainings that had no benefit or practical information. Yours was wonderful, interesting, informative, practical, and motivating! It's the best conference I've ever attended by far!" Melissa, Developmental Therapist, Ft. Wayne, IN

"I've been a practicing SLP for 34 years, and this is the best presentation for practical information for treating toddlers and working with parents that I've ever attended!" Kimberly, SLP, Franklin, TN

COURSE DESCRIPTION

Most professionals are quite knowledgeable in various theories for early speech-language development, but may lack developmentally-appropriate methods for implementing these strategies. This course is designed to help professionals who work with infants and toddlers ages birth to 4 determine effective and developmentally-appropriate treatment methods and materials to use when working with our youngest clients. Many conferences emphasize diagnostic information leaving therapists wondering, "Now what do I do?" In this course we'll focus on TREATMENT strategies for use with parents in variety of settings including home-based early intervention programs, daycare and preschool environments, and direct intervention in clinical settings.

The entire 12 hour DVD series will help you prioritize goals for working with young children with language delays due to a variety of disorders including autism spectrum disorders, apraxia, phonological disorder, Down Syndrome, cerebral palsy, sensory processing disorder, and prematurity. See over 50 updated video clips of "real life" therapy with a variety of toddlers.

Using a simple treatment hierarchy, we can determine where to start to treat specific deficits in the key areas which affect acquisition of communication skills. You'll receive many new, FUN treatment ideas for your youngest clients and excellent, copy ready resources to share with parents and other early intervention professionals.
